LATE ITEM

Berlin

Ten TU-16s entered the East German airspace from the USSR this morning. Two dropped chaff, one engaged in S-band jamming. This activity rendered the Tempelhof airport radar ineffective for 30 minutes. We cannot yet be cetain whether this was intentional.

1. Berlin

- a. The Soviets, continuing their gradual flooding tactics, have 24 transport flights (12 inbound-12 outbound) scheduled for the northern air corridor this morning from 0352 to 0951 Eastern Standard Time at varying altitudes between 2500 to 6500 feet, in effect pre-empting this block of airspace for the period.
- b. As of 0800 the Soviet flights were proceeding normally and no incidents have been reported. Six allied military transport flights are scheduled in the corridor during the critical period.
- c. We see in this steadily increasing number of flights and extension of the notification period—they filed today's schedule 20 hours in advance—a ploy whereby, if we followed suit, we would appear to be seeking their prior permission for corridor use or alternatively risk endangering air safety.
- d. It is possible that Gromyko may approach us in Geneva alleging the need to renegotiate air access arrangements.
- e. On Wednesday the East Germans began using their sheds at the Friedrichstrasse crossing for processing vehicles and pedestrians entering and leaving East Berlin.
- f. Ambassador Thompson notes a hint in Mikoyan's Leipzig speech that the Soviets may be reintroducing the time element for a German peace treaty into the Berlin issue.

2. Laos

a. Ambassador Brown continues negotiating with his Western colleagues in Vientiane on suggestions for an acceptable coalition cabinet. London and Canberra are in agreement with his proposals

50X1

Paris had initial qualms about our proposal for the Foreign Affairs post to Souphannouvong but we expect them to go along.

b. We still see no signs of give on the part of Phoumi and his supporters. Somewhat belatedly he is trying to drum up popular support for his position

50X1

c. Embassy Vientiane notes that the wide official distribution given a bitterly anti-American article carried yesterday in the government press organ suggests initiation of a psychological and propaganda campaign to rally public support for Phoumi's opposition to our policy and to Souvanna Phouma

- 3. Communist aggressiveness in South Vietnam increasing
- a. Since mid-February they have employed larger forces in attacks against their prime targets Civil Guard and self defense troops manning remote outposts where the Viet Cong are trying to consolidate or link up base areas. The government has suffered heavy casualties in these clashes. The expanding scope of Viet Cong military activity coincides with the Bloc's propaganda campaign to stir up international alarm over South Vietnam as a "threat to world peace."

4. Latin America

a. The still smouldering rebellion in Guatemala is drawing increased Communist attention. The Guatemalan party is pressing for a second guerrilla front there

50X1

b. Ambassador Martin says
press reports of yesterday's antiAmerican incidents in Santo Domingo were exaggerated. He characterizes the attacks on Consulate property
as the preplanned work of a youthful street gang organized and incited by a notorious leftist rabble rouser
just released from detention. General Rodriguez Echavarria's deportation apparently came as a surprise to the military.
