

100
File copy
303
~~Top Secret~~

3.5(c)

EO 13526 3.5(c)
NR

Intelligence Memorandum

Foreign Perceptions of the Incoming US Administration

3.5(c)

~~Top Secret~~
104

RP 77-10001C

January 7, 1977

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

NR

Page Denied

Page Denied

Page Denied

~~TOP SECRET~~ [redacted]

NR

Argentina: The Argentines appear to have ambivalent feelings about the advent of a Democratic president and a heavily Democratic Congress. On the one hand, they applaud the return of the party of John F. Kennedy, widely revered in Latin America. On the other, the Argentines are concerned over what they expect to be an increasingly liberal US government that will pursue more vigorously questions concerning the abuse of human rights. Argentine commentators and officials probably view this as the single most worrisome aspect of the incoming administration.

~~TOP SECRET~~ [redacted]

Page Denied