Dear Admiral Raborn,

General Speidel informed me that he had a very nice meeting with you in the house of Senator Rivers. He told me about the interesting talks he had, and the pleasant days he could enjoy during his stay in the United States.

In view of the fact that the close cooperation between the United States Intelligence community and our organisation will reach its 20th anniversary in July, I may invite you to visit our organisation in the course of this year. I can imagine your probably very tight time schedule. So you may fix the date yourself in the frame of your possibilities.

Looking forward to meet you

Sincerely yours

R. Jellin
