GERMAN ATROCITIES

MAIN GREECE

EXECUTIONS. Evangelos Voutsadopoulos was sentenced to death by the German Martial Court of Athens, for printing secret newspapers and executed on the 16/10/43.

On the 2/11/43, 8 persons were executed in Athens for communism and spying. Only the names of the following 4 are known. 1) Alexandros Kairis 2) Constandinos Macris, aged 20- 3) Evangelos Papadas, from Thebes, aged 19- 4) Loukas Tsoustas, shepherd, from Ievadia, aged 22-

On the 27th November 1943, 1) Constandinos Ventouris 2) Vassilios Skareas 3) Ilias Tsamouranis 4) Ioannis Kilados, detained as Communists, were executed in Athens on November 27th 1943, in reprisal for acts against the occupation authorities.

In January 1944, the German authorities in Athens announced the execution of 30 hostages, in reprisal for the murder of a soldier belonging to the Security Battalions.

MURDERS In July 1943, a German soldier attacked a young man aged 18- at Kallithea (Athens) who was trying to fill up his lighter with petrol leaking from the german's car. He was beaten so savagely that he died.

On the 5/8/43, the Germans executed without trial the following in reprisal for the murder of 4 german officers.

- 50 persons in Bourlessia village
- 50 " " Dafni
- 50 " " Grammatiko
- 50 " " Kapsorahi.
- 50 " " Makrenan
- 50 " " Papadates

From reports received on the 7/9/43, we learn that 3-civilians were executed without trial in Amphiloia.

In September 1943, Germans murdered many inhabitants of Astakos, in reprisal for Guerillas activity. The number of victims is yet unknown.

In September 1943, Mytika village was shelled from the sea. 29 inhabitants were killed. Few days later, german detachments attacked the village and slaughtered most of women and children.

From information dated the 12/10/43, we learn that the german authorities hanged 8 civilians in Agrinion, because telegraph wires had been cut between Agrinion and Aheloos bridge.

In December 1943, german detachments killed many peasants in Zaklarovi village.

In December 1943, the unarmed population of Zapanos village was deported to Agrinion. During the transport 2 men were killed by the German guards.

ARRESTS In April 1943, 60 civilians were arrested as hostages in Platistomon village (Akarnania). Nothing more of their fate is known.

After Italy's collapse, 21 hostages from Samos together with 81 others detained as Communists escaped from Veas concentration camp to Syros.

In October 1943, the Germans recaptured them and sent the 21 hostages to the Averoff prisons, keeping the Communists on Syros island.

In December 1943, German detachments arrested 5 inhabitants of Asprokampos village (Akarnania) in reprisal for Guerilla activity.

During the same period 30 inhabitants of Bouzi village were arrested and detained as hostages.

After December 1943, Germans made chance arrests of civilians in the streets of Athens employing them for small compulsory work, such as the transport of officers luggages, cleaning houses, etc. During December 1943, 15 inhabitants walking peacefully in the street (amongst them were 2 physicians) were arrested and compelled to carry the luggage of German officers.

In January 1944, Athanassios Loukas, was arrested in Athens for being a member of a National Organisation. He is detained in the Athens prisons. During his interrogation, he was savagely tortured and had all his teeth extracted.

About the same period, Evangelia Reizi, aged 14, was arrested and detained in prison in order to compel her father and brother to give themselves up.

IMPRISONMENTS In April 1943, Mrs. Katchaki, Miss Petrahaki and another girl (name unknown), all employees of the "Bank of Greece" were arrested in Athens for distributing clandestine newspapers. They were condemned to 3 1/2 years imprisonment and sent to Italian prisons, from where they were released after the Italian armistice.

On the 28/8/43, Ioannis Peristerakis, Stamatelos from Dovrena and Karamboghias were arrested by German detachments in Thebes for partaking in the Guerilla movement and were sent before the Athens Martial Courts. Karamboghias was condemned to 8 years imprisonment, Stamatelos was found not guilty and Peristerakis was detained as P.O.W.

ILL-TREATMENTS In August 1943, German soldiers entered in the house of Vassiliou Tatti in N. Smyrni (Athens) and attempted to rape his wife. The neighbours ran to help and succeeded in saving her. Two men of the Tatti household were left unconscious from blows received from the Germans.

In September 1943, Lieut. Loilos, was seriously wounded by German soldier in Athens, because he refused to get off a tram when ordered to do so.

On the 21/11/43, Mrs. Palaska, aged 70, was arrested by the German Security Battalion in Nea Smyrni (Athens) because I. Ghemenakis, her nephew who was wanted, was found in her house. During the interrogation, the unfortunate woman was tortured and a few days later released in a very poor state of health.

German soldiers using as excuse the discovery of arms bought from Italians, search every house in Athens, robbing and ill-treating the inhabitants. Thus, they entered Major Kyriazi Drossos' house and threatening him with their pistols, robbed him from an important sum of money.

CONCENTRATION CAMPS On the 26/10/43, 43 Greek hostages were sent to Germany from Ghoudi (Athens) concentration camp. 18 of these had been arrested in Krokeon (Sparta) and 11 in Patras. 521 hostages arrested in Kalama are detained in the Ghoudi concentration camp. They were taken on foot to Athens as was reported in Pulletin C.41-. Hostages from Kalamas are also detained in Haidari concentration camp. In all some 800- hostages from Kalamas are detained in these two camps.

On the 3/11/43, 173 hostages of Kalamas were released from Haidariou concentration camp. Herebelow, we give a nominal list of hostages known from those detained in the Choudi concentration camp (Athens).
