1. Upon receipt of first reference I discussed this with [ ] emphasizing that Headquarters really wants the entire file on the case. [ ] indicated that it would be impossible to comply literally with this request but that she would discuss the matter with [ ] and determine how close Jackpot could come to meeting our requirements. [ ] has been ill and I have now received a note from [ ] the substance of which is as follows:

2. Jackpot request that Headquarters indicate as exactly as possible what additional papers or information pertaining to this case are desired. On checking the Jackpot records [ ] finds that all the relevant facts in the case have been passed to us and that the views of the various interrogators have been included. [ ] confirms that up to the present a complete history of the case has not been written by Jackpot and while the job would be interesting and worthwhile, it is impossible at this time due to Jackpot's current heavy work load. [ ] regrets that the file itself cannot be let out on loan or otherwise. Nevertheless, Jackpot is anxious to help in any way possible and will welcome specific requests from Headquarters on any particular aspects of the case. Such requests will be met as expeditiously as possible.
