(Second paragraph from bottom of page)

"We are in Vienna, because we have heard that it is easier to 'get through' the Soviet officials there (i.e., get visas) than it is in West Germany. This was were told by rich German merchants who are interested to do business with the USSR." (See paragraph 1, MSMA-19992, 1 July 1960)

Page # 9: (last paragraph from bottom of page)

"We filled out the Cesterreichische Reiseburo (Austrian Travel Bureau) questionnaires. Some of the questions asked were as follows:

- a. Purpose of visit -- tourism
- b. Cocupation--student c. Relatives in USER -- none

(Peregraph # 3)

"It took 2-3 days to get Czech transit visas and 14 days to get Polish trensit vises."

(Peregraph # 4)

"It's June. If we had hurried we would have been able to attend the festival of the 20th Anniversary of Latvian SSR. We can't make it though."

(last sentence, paragraph 6)

"Our passport pictures obviously will go to an archive in Moscow, perhaps Foreign Ministry and/or some Security Office."

"We are able to get the 'Pensionklasse' rates for travel in the Soviet Union 6 $16.00 a day; thus, while saving money, we have also gotten rid of the Inturist guide."

"Soviet border control: Valda DABCLS and Andria KADEKIS, both students, both U.S. citizens, both residing in Munich, this day have crossed into USSR. Our bags were not opened."

Pege # 27:

"Insts Sanders gave them advise prior to their trip. Sanders came out to Berlin few years ago."

Page # 29:

TRANSLATOR'S COMMENT: Writer of the book in the person of the traveler criticizes the following:

"USSR inability to achieve seme economic recovery as West Germany."
 "Women's 'equality' in USSR, i.e., working as laborers building bouses, working on farms or on railroads."

Page # 33:

"Every floor in Intourist Hotel in Moscow has one 'duzburnik'. The Party (C.P.) and the government (USSR) must have their reasons for such an arrangement which does not exist in any other country. Perhaps it is important for the Security Agencies (USSR) to know when the guest comes home, when he goes out, with whom, what visitors he receives. When the guest leaves his Hotel, even just to step out for a few minutes, he has to turn the key of his room over to the 'duzburnik'."

"We are talking to the Inturist representative, repeating our desire to spend 14 days in Latvia. His face shows disappointment. 'Are you really going to stay just a few days in Moscovi' Apparently, he doesn't like that foreign tourists are interested to apend more time in the Baltic than in USSR proper. He checks with his boss in the next room and tells us with a sour looking face that we can stay in Riga as scheduled."

"While walking through the hallway (in the Moscow Hotel), we noticed over and over the same (few) men sitting in the same chairs and reading newspapers. We just glance at each other. They are situated so that they can see the whole room (lobby). We don't say anything to each other. From this moment we are convinced that Sowiet regime is interested to know how the guests behave and with whom they meet."

Page # 54:

"Both Valda and Andris are playing chess at Moscow Sharmentyev Airport while waiting for plane to Riga. Suddenly somebody says, 'Good, good,' in Latrian. 'Michael Pale,' says the stranger and introduces himself. 'I overbeard that you conversed in Latvian.' Tale has the Komecool emblem on his lapel. Tale had just returned (with a Russian chess team) from a chess match in Hamburg. He also visited Amsterdam, where he met the Grand Master of Chess, Dr. Rive."

Page # 55:

"One can feel that the way Tals thinks (?). He is conscious of his Latvian descent by indicating consciously or unconsciously his belonging to Latvia. This surprised us, and also made us feel good.

"If BOVINIK wants a return match, then he will have to play in Riga, " said Tals.

"What is his (Tale) opinion about the Latvian emigre chees players, and does he know them.

" ' In my opinion MEDNIS and HALVE are good, especially MAIME, ' replied Tale.

"Another Latvian (Soviet) joins our discussions. He is a man past his middle age, apparently somebody who knows Tall. This other man also visited Hamburg and Amsterdam.

'My companion (Valda) and the older man discuss languages. He (older man) orders her a drink. At the same time I keep discussing chess with Tala, who lives only in and for a world of chess. While Tala is being congratualated by a girl, I (Andria) made the mistake of joining them (Valda and the old man) in the airport's buffet, for the old man discoutinues his discussion (with Valdat). The old man remains silent for a moment, then excuses himself and walks assay."

Page 64 to 108:

The writer discusses SANDERS' experiences after World War II. A friend of SANDERS, one CRIVINA (a librarian) of the local University is a good friend and confident of SANDERS.

8-B-C-R-E-T

Pages 207 - 220:

The writer discusses Andris' and Valda's discussions with Soviet Latvian newspaper "CIRA" correspondent OZOLS.

Pages 228 - 260:

Andris and Valda visit with former teacher, levina, and her husband, a medical doctor.

Pages 123 - 138:

"Valda and Andria visit Vilis and Vilma BERZINS on Street, Riga. Vilma is an old friend of Valda's family. Vilis, a retired railroad man who used to be a Marxist. He went to USSR during World War II. After his return be has changed his mind about Marxism. They have a la-year old son, Mintauts (Page # 133), who attends a Highschool for Art (drawing and painting) in Riga. Mintauts is not interested to go to summer camp because there are too many Russian kids. While they are visiting with Berzins family they hear the following broadcast (page #136):

'American flyer POWERS has admitted being on a spy mission. Corroborating photographs have been found. Soviet citizens beware. Be careful while in contact with foreigners. Capitalist mercenaries are among you trying to spy on our industry and military objectives. Surface them.'

Pages 228 - 260:

Ievina expresses her hopes that Amiris has not become a communist (page # 232). Old doctor cautions Amiris and Valda, that anything they will say about their visit in Latvia will get back to them (?). This warning comes as a relief (?) to Amiris and Valda because they (levina and the Doctor) know what they can or cannot tell us (paragraphs 1 and 2, page # 250). Later on they are joined by Ievina's daughter and son-in-law, Rasma and Valentins SMILGA (page # 252). Valentins SMILGA is a young Communist. The teacher's family has a copy of "Doctor Zhivago" (page # 255), (See Page # 3, Attachment "A" ERM-51139, 15 September 1960.) and Valentins shows us poetry books by Olafs STUNEMIS, Veronika STRIERTE, Linards TAUES, all of whom have been published in the West. The Doctor and his teacher wife show definite anti-Soviet attitudes.

Pages # 268-278:

Andris and Valda, being interviewed by OZOLS, a representative of Soviet Latvian newspaper "CIRA" and by VALDMANIS, a representative of the 'Committee for Repatriation and Cultural Contacts with Latvians Abroad'.

Pages # 293-294:

"We have a few letters from our new friend from Jugla (Riga), which are eddressed to sister in USA. The letters are wrapped up in brown paper together with old photographs of old ladies and gentlemen. All of which we have to forward. The (Sowiet) customs men (at Brest) find the letters and keep them. He promises to mail them via international mail."

Pages 4 294-295:

"A Belt-German (Latvian) lady from Hamburg joins Andris and Valda in their compartment at Event. This Baltin German lady also visited Rigs, where she was retained because of some photographs she took, her Soviet visa expire in Moscow, a cashier at a movie theatre in Rigs told her that she is being followed, and in Brest she was given a body search, etc."

SEPARATE COVER ATTACEMENT C

BONE 11520

SOURCE OF INFORMATION:

SUBJECT

"RICA RETOUR"

1. The book as such is the best ever published about Riga and Latvia today. The author has been successful in achieving his goal, for the book gives a very good insight into people in Riga, their way of thinking and living. The author has described very realistically the feelings of various Latvian groups regarding Communism and Russians, as well as their feelings toward the Free World and their hopeless situation.

- 2. The book has positive effect, in trying to dispel the attitude of Latvian emigres who do not approve of trips to Soviet Latvia, and who regard such visitors as unreliable or practically Communist agents. The book, however, shows that that is not so. According to the book, one who visits Latvia may perform a useful service, by informing Soviet Latvians about the Free World, and downgrade the Soviet propagands. On the other hand, the author describes the visit of forty pro-Soviet Latvian-Americans who visited Latvia during the 20th amiversary of Soviet Latvia as damaging to morale.
- 3. It is a well-known fact, that many Latvians recognize Andris Kadegis and his girl-friend, Valda, as the author's travelers. I believe that Andris' trip was sponsored by Eq's. However, I cannot reconcile the following:
 - a. Why was Andris' true name in the book?
 - b. Was it necessary to mention that one could obtain a visa easier in Vienna than in another place?
 - c. Andris' detailed description of the Intourist employee was unnecessary.
 - d. A careful reader can see that Andria and Valda had a vary good briefing, because one of Kadegis' generation couldn't possibly know so many details about Latvia, its past and present.
 - e. The questions and answers given by Andria in Soviet Latvia were very carefully prepared.
 - f. Andris knew exactly what he could and could not do.

- t should be clear to a reader that Endegis was prepared very carefully for a certain wission.
- h. Being an American citizen with an American passport, one can easily draw a conclusion that Kadegis was a PEFRIME agent.
- that the most damaging factor, however, is that with this book Andris has emiangered persons in Soviet Latvia with whom he was in contact. Assuming that the author has tried to change the names and the characters, it seems that this book assists the KHB. It is stated in the book that Andris and Valda were under surveillance tall times. Let us say that KHB-gis had contact with 10 to 15 persons. It seems that it is very easy now for the KHB to true and accuse the of collaboration with FHFTIME agents, or at least accuse the contacts of having anti-Communist political views as described in the book. Even if the person inside did not say the things as stated in the book, the KHB has now a document which may incriminate them.
- 5. Another demaging fact is that the MHB may surmise, if they have not done so already, that the FEWRING sends its agents into lattin as tourists. Generally speaking, this book does a disservice to the future claudestine activities as they may be planned by Residuarters.
- 6. The question has been asked by several latvians, why this type of book was published. For instance, Jamis Eadilis, who knows Andris personally, explained that Andris was encused by the members of his student fraternity (Fraternites Lettics) as being a questionable person. To counter his accusers, Andris supposedly assisted in publishing this book to show that he is more or less a hero. According to Jamis Eadilis, the secondary reason is probably a financial one. Eadilis accuses the author, Klans, of writing this book only to make supposed.
- 7. It is a fact that Andris was bragging about his trip. Andris even made good business deals by selling 8 mm movie films on Soviet Latvia to various persons and organizations. Similar views and information was received from five leading Latvians, who described this book as one of the most tragic events in the years of endgration. One endgre in particular is more or less involved personally, since he plaused to visit Soviet Latvia in the near future. The publication of this book may force him to change his plans.
- lishing house. "R The book was published by Helmars Radsitis "Grazatu llyange" pab-brase. "KIGA HENCUR" was sold out in a couple of weeks and now the dition has been sold out as well.
