The Honorable Gale W. McGee
United States Senate
Washington, D. C.

Dear Gale:

Thanks for your note. I enjoyed the dinner the other night too, especially since I don't have many chances for informal gatherings.

I'm looking forward to having lunch with you and hope we can work out a convenient time soon.

Best regards,

Henry A. Kissinger

Dear Larry:

Thank you for your letter of March 3 and for the background on your lecture series.

After mulling it over in my mind, I just don't see how it would be possible for me to commit myself to any particular date to speak. I haven't been accepting any engagements, mainly because the most likely thing that would happen when I plan something like this would be that the President suddenly has other plans or we find ourselves involved in some kind of flap. As much as I would like to participate, I think it would be impossible for me to accept under these circumstances.

I certainly appreciate your invitation, and from the sound of it, I'm sure it will be a great success. Thank you again.

Best regards,

Henry A. Kissinger

Dear Mel:

Thank you for the analysis of recent casualty statistics in Vietnam which you forwarded on March 1st. It was a very useful contribution, and I will be watching for the additional analysis you promise.

Best regards,

Dear Bill:

Please excuse my tardy reply to your letter enclosing excerpts from Mr. Kolsky's paper, "United States Security Policy and the Arab-Israeli Conflict." I do not find his thinking far from much that I have encountered since coming to Washington. What strikes me most is that he has been able to write as he has with what you tell me is extensive experience in seeing the problem from the Israeli viewpoint.

Personal regards,

Henry A. Kissinger

Dear Achille:

Thank you for the copies of your recent articles. As these subjects are very much on my mind at the moment, I particularly appreciated receiving your thoughts.

I am enclosing a reprint of my contribution to Agenda for the Nation, which you requested.

Let us hope it will not be so long before we meet once more -- and that this letter will not take three months to reach you.

Best regards,

Henry A. Kissinger

Dear Mrs. Feichtner:

I was deeply saddened to learn of your husband's death. I recall with particular warmth his many kindnesses to me during my various assignments in Government over the years. He will be profoundly missed by his many friends on the National Security Council Staff.

Please convey to the other members of your family my deepest sympathy.

Most sincerely,

Henry A. Kissinger

Dear Russ:

I appreciate very much your taking the trouble to send me the full description of the telephone link between the Chancellor's office and the President's office. I had learned of the system before, but had never known all the details.

I also want to thank you for everything you did for all of us while the President was in Germany. The planning and arrangements in Bonn and Berlin were outstanding.

Best regards,
