The New York Times recently published a discussion about Russian policy and present. This discussion was contained by a speech of Secretary of State Acheson.

The Byelorussian position in this matter is clear. The Byelorussian people in the U. S. S. R. are subject to a continuation of the policy of suppression of the Russian cause, beginning under the Moscow trials 60 years ago. The historical background of Russia shows a policy of conquest and the enslavement of independent people.

The Byelorussian-Lithuanian unity for several centuries engaged in collaboration with the Russian Government, also years against attacks from Russia. In 1918, Byelorussia in the aftermath century there were armed battles against Russian occupation. In 1921 the Russian Government had published publications in the Byelorussian language.

In 1937 the First National Byelorussian Congress in Minsk realized the independent Byelorussian state, which was proclaimed on March 25, 1918. The Byelorussians used armed violence to break up the Congress. In the year 1939 an armed Byelorussian movement against Soviet occupation in the Baltic place, and in 1939 an armed Byelorussian movement in 1944 the Soviet Government took place in Minsk.

The first opportunity in 1946 the Second National Byelorussian Congress was held in Minsk. The 1,600 Byelorussian people to renounce a free independent national life. The Byelorussian people declared that the Byelorussian people had nothing in common with the U. S. S. R. and turned over the Government of the Byelorussian people to the Byelorussian Central Committee. This Byelorussian house point was fighting against the invasion of the Byelorussian people at this time.

In the meantime, Soviet-imperialism, then ever increasing, threatened the free world. The war in Korea is an example of Soviet expansion and Communist activity has been used by the Soviet Government for a objective has had for weakening the administration. New communists in other expression for Russia imperialism as well.

Your editorial dealing with the editorial and with the speech of Secretary Acheson caused protests from various Byelorussian emigrants. This is 1951 protest, because there exists a Russian group which was organized by a car's imperialism and which was participated by the U. S. S. R. All these political groups, except for "usual differences, defend the "media" of the end the end... "end of nations" has previously conquered by Russia.

The only positive solution of the German Euro-Atlantic imperialism of world peoples in this day of the acceptance of the principle of self-determination for enslaved peoples is the realization for enslaved peoples is the realization for them of their previous independent state.
