12 November 1952 (Wednesday)

NOTE: Special work involving hypnotic techniques was not carried on on 4 and 5 November because of the national elections. In addition, work was cancelled the night of 11 November since it was Armistice Day.

On 12 November 1952, SI and H experimentation was carried on in Building 13, Room 20, with [REDACTED] by [REDACTED]

As noted previously, these subjects are all fairly new and the session was primarily devoted to further testing and efforts to produce deeper sleep states in these individuals.

At this point, by observation, it appears that [REDACTED] is a good subject, while [REDACTED] are not good subjects in any sense of the word and are possibly engaged in the work for no other reason than the financial benefits involved. However, all subjects were tested and run on routine techniques with every effort made to drive [REDACTED] into deeper conditions than they had reached previously without success.
