The first gathering was a memorial service for deceased members of the society; the meeting attended by about 50 persons took place in the afternoon at the Manganji Temple. Following the service, the group held a roundtable conference under the leadership of KISHIDA Ryotaro. Discussions reportedly dealt mainly with regulations for the new society, scheduled to be inaugurated formally on 15 Aug 1952. Plans for the meeting reportedly had called for the presence of TSUJI Masanobu leader in the organization's revival, as chief speaker, but an early report on the meeting does not mention him. In the evening of the same day, the Society reportedly held a rally at the Yasaka High School auditorium, Kyoto; estimated attendance was about 1,000 as compared to the 3,000 which an earlier report said the Society had expected. TSUJI was on hand at this
