

What's News -

(b)(3)

(U) "Winter is Coming" for Former DD/CIA David Cohen

Posted By  On April 26, 2019 @ 7:30 am

(b)(3)

(b)(6)

UNCLASSIFIED

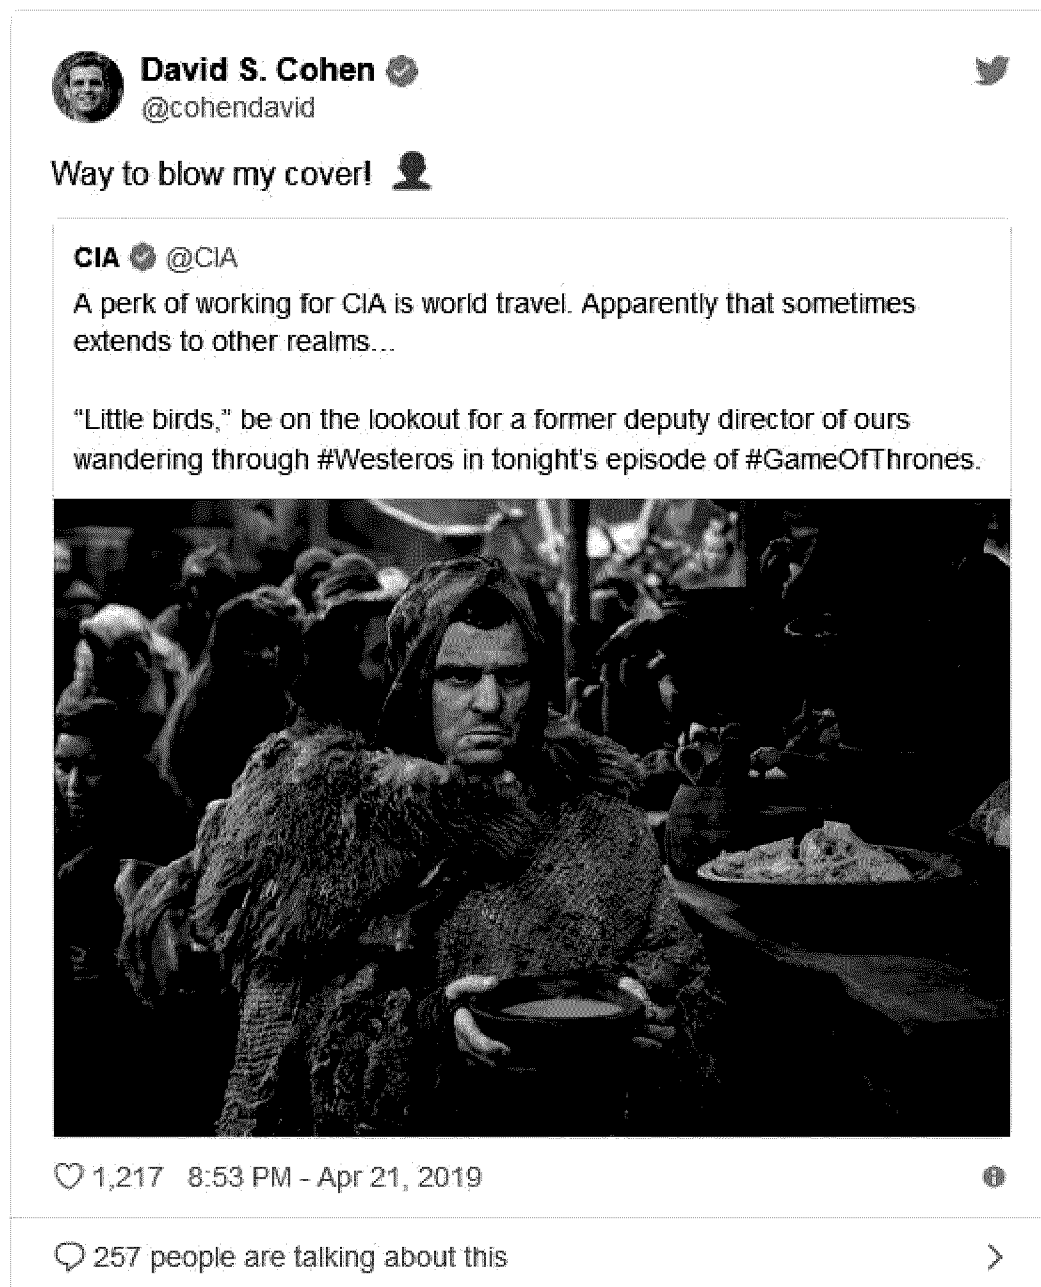

(U) Former DD/CIA David Cohen lines up for soup.

(U) While traveling the world is a normal part of the job for many CIA officers, traveling to fictional lands is not. Nevertheless, that is exactly what former Deputy Director David Cohen did this past weekend, when he appeared as a nondescript Northerner during Sunday's (21 April) episode of Game of Thrones.

(U) CNN reported that while "Cohen did not have any lines, he was served a bowl of soup by Ser Davos Seaworth, played by actor Liam Cunningham, as Winterfell prepared for the impending arrival of the Night King and his army of the dead."

(U) CIA's Office of Public Affairs revealed Cohen's appearance in a tweet. Cohen tweeted back, joking that we had "blown his cover."

(U) How did a former DD/CIA end up in a Winterfell soup line, you ask? Cohen said in an interview with NBC that he asked his brother-in-law, who is a showrunner for Game of Thrones, if he could be an extra when they were celebrating Thanksgiving in 2017.

(U) For more Game of Thrones-themed content, see the Emerging Trends blog post "For the Night is Dark and Full of Terrors" : 2019 Data Privacy Trends.

UNCLASSIFIED

---