Syria/Turkey: and Syrian forces traded mortar rounds across their borders for the fifth straight day. Syrian artillery shells landed in the southeastern Turkish border village of Akcakale, where five civilians were killed last week in a strike that provoked a counter-attack from Turkey. One of the artillery shells landed near a storage facility of the Turkish Office of Soil Products. No reports of casualties at this time,	(b)(3)
Turkish Ministry of Disaster and Emergency Management Directorate (AFAD) and the Turkish Red Crescent yesterday began providing humanitarian assistance to Syrian refugees at a fifth assistance location next to the Syrian border. AFAD said that the new assistance location, in Akcakale, was established to help meet the basic needs of Syrian refugees.	(b)(3 (b)(3)
