B. Accomplishments:

[] By the beginning of next week Santiago Station will have "false flag" staffers actively engaged in contacting Chilean military leaders. 40 Committee approval to suspend U.S. military aid to Chile until after the election might make our key targets more receptive to coup proposals.

C. Situation:

The situation remains relatively unchanged. President Frei is still unwilling or unable to pave the way for a military cabinet. Apparently he harbors the hope that he can work out a political solution to the present dilemma. The PDC junta today, however, may force Frei to reconsider the feasibility of a political solution.

At the same time the military remains reluctant to move against Allende despite their knowledge that the USG is considering cutting military aid to Chile and that no guarantees exist ensuring the positions of top military leaders.
