Attached is an advance copy of a report prepared by the National Academy of Public Administration for the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities. Any report prepared by this prestigious group is bound to receive some attention when it is published; but it makes for interesting reading, and I thought you might like to review it at your convenience. Since I intend to use parts of it while teaching at American University, I would like to have it back when you are through with it. There is no hurry.
